We wish you all a Happy and blessed upcoming Ramadan, and call on our community to ensure that no one breaks their fast with genocide. Many date brands sold in the U.S. are israeli owned, profiting from and exploiting Palestinian and Islamic traditions, stolen land, and Palestinian labor.

Stolen Land

Palestine's fertile land has been a center of agricultural life for centuries, known for delicious dates. Now these dates are grown by illegal settlers on stolen land, and in order to evade boycotts they are often disguised using labels such as: Jordan Valley, West Bank (settlements), or 'produce of more than one country.'

Spread the Word

Share this information with friends, family, neighbors, local stores, and social media. It is our responsibility to make sure our community does not break fast with ethnic cleansing, as Muslims, as people with a conscience, and those who support Palestinian liberation.

Educate and Organize

If a grocer sells brands with an israeli label, ask to speak with someone about replacing these products. If they do not sell any, thank them and share the list anyway. If you want WOL to follow up with any stores, contact us at wol.palestine@gmail.com. It is crucial to remind one another to join the boycott, especially during the holy month of Ramadan.
